Burgins in Sterling Silver Spoons and Forks; also in Rogers & Bro.'s 1847 Knives, Forks and Spoons. Never before have these goods been sold so cheap as P. J. Murphy the Jeweler is offering them.

Mrs. Jennie Barr and her niece, Miss Sallie Agnew, have come from Portsmouth to make their home in this city. Mrs. Barr's husband was the late Captain "Bob" Barr, so well known as a former resident here. The ladies will occupy the residence recently purchased by Mrs. D. A. Richardson from Mrs. John N. Thomas on West Third street.

Mrs. W. H. Evans and daughter, residing near Lewisburg, drove into town this morning. Miss Evans got on to the buggy on Fourth street, and Mrs. Evans started down Market. When the horse got right of the street he started to run, and on Third near Market the vehicle upset, throwing Mrs. Evans out. She was taken into Dr. Harver's office, where it was found, fortunately, that she was not seriously hurt. Pres Long stopped the runaway.

SHAKE, FRANK, SHAKE!

Frank Grant of Kentucky Elected Grand Secretary of Sovereign Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F.

A telegram from Dallas, Texas, to THE LEADER from Representative William H. Egan conveys the gratifying information that Colonel J. Frank Grant of Petersburg has just been elected Grand Secretary of the Sovereign Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F., now in session at Dallas.

He succeeds Mr. Theo. A. Ross of Maryland, who has been Grand Secretary for many years, and whose advanced age has rendered him unable longer to discharge the onerous duties of the office.

Kentucky Oddfellows need no introduction to Frank Grant. He's son of Nature's noblemen.

Again, Frank, shake!

THE LEADER is just now eagerly sought for than ever before in its history and is in greater demand than any paper ever printed in Maysville. Its telling articles on the financial question are attracting wide attention. Advertisers should take advantage of this fact.

Mrs. Blatterman desires to have all the ladies of the city and county who wish to become Delegates of the American Revolution to meet with her, at No. 15 West Fourth street, on Friday afternoon, September 25th, at 3 o'clock. Mr. Jacob Eshensen, who is the only son of the Chicago Lumber Co. at Des Moines, Iowa, says: "I have just sent some medicine back to my mother in the old country, that I know from personal use to be the best medicine in the world for rheumatism, having used it in my family for several years. No invitations will be issued, but friends of the contracting parties are invited to be present. The LEADER in advance tenders its congratulations to the fortunate lady, with best wishes for the estimable groom who is soon to become his better half.

When work begins to exceed repair in your body you are going to fall sick. The signs are: loss of flesh, pale skin, weakness, nervousness, etc. The repair needed is food. You think you eat enough, and yet you feel that you wear out more food, energy, nervousness, than your food makes for you. The difficulty is that you do not digest what you eat. And this is so serious it is worth sitting down seriously to think about. If you can't digest what you eat, take a few doses of Chamberlain's Digestive Cough. The effect of it will be to increase your flesh and make you feel stronger. You won't fall sick. Proof that it is food that you need occasionally when you eat much to keep your system. Take a few bottles of Chamberlain's Digestive Cough. Sold by druggists at 3 cents in 25 cent bottles.

TAKE CARE OF THAT COLD.

Twenty-five cents' worth of Jay's Grip Tablets will cure; guaranteed by Peck, Druggist.

Thanks.

To W. R. Madison, Superintendent Sun Life Insurance Co.: Accept my sincere thanks for the prompt payment of claim ($100) on the life of my wife. Very truly, JOHN F. BRATTON, Jr.

The case of Thomas Harvey, who on Monday attempted to pass a worthless check in this city, is a peculiar one. Before the case was called in the Police Court yesterday the officials looked up the law to find out what sort of charge to prefer—and, lo! they found out that they couldn't prefer any! So the accused was turned loose.

Every Day

Between this date and the Presidential Election THE LEADER will send out a large number of extra copies through Mason, and adjoining counties.

TAXING FRANCHISES.

What Maysville's Three "Corporations" Will Pay Taxes On.

The State Board of Valuation, composed of the Auditor, Secretary of State and Treasurer, has about completed the big task begun several months ago, the fixing of the taxable franchise values of the different corporations of the state, subject to a franchise tax.

THE LEADER gives the valuation placed upon the three Maysville corporations that come under this law:

Maysville Water Company..... $31,000

Maysville Street Railway and Transfer Company..... 5,250

Maysville Gas Company and Citizens' Gas Light Company (consolidated)..... 15,430

The highest valuation in the state is that of the Louisville Street Railway Company, $5,488,655.

The Western Union Telegraph Company comes in for $1,043,000, and the Adams Express Company kicks the beam at $1,483,940.

In another letter to the manufacturers Mr. W. F. Benjamin, Editor of The Spectator, Rushford, N. Y., says: "It may be a pleasure to you to know the high esteem in which Chamberlain's medicine is held by the people of your own state, where they must be best known. An aunt of mine, who resides at Dexter, Iowa, was about to visit me home wrote me, stating if they were sold here, stating if they were not she would bring a quantity with her, as she did not like to be without them." The medicines referred to are Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of colds and croup; Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, lame back, pains in the side and chest, and Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints.

These medicines have been in constant use in Iowa for almost a quarter of a century. The people have learned that they are articles of great worth and merit, and are unequalled by any other. They are for sale here by J. J. Wood, Druggist.

MAJOR MCKINLEY HAS A UNIQUE FRONT PORCH A Tennesseean.

Major McKinley has received by express a finely polished and embellished stump of a tree.

It is intended for use in delivering his front porch addresses, and is of a convenient height for that purpose.

The stump was sent by Jesse C. Grover, Sheriff of Knox county, Knoxville, Tenn.

Accompanying the stump was a long letter from Mr. Grover, which said in part:

"The loyal people of East Tennessee are intensely in earnest in your behalf in the present National contest, and being desirous of impressing that fact deeply and firmly on your mind, I have sent a token of our devotion as a people to the cause of good government, which you so ably and fully represent. The contribution which I make today is an ideal Republican stump from the great Commonwealth of orators. Since we can't have you on the stump in the South this fall, we hope you will do us the honor to deliver your home speeches from the Southern stump."

WE'RE FOR AMERICA! AMERICANS!

"I believe that it is a good deal better to open up the Mills of the United States to the Labor of America than to open up the Mills of the United States to the Labor of the world."—WILLIAM McKINLEY.

If our labor was well employed, and employed at as remunerative wages as in 1873, in a few months every farmer in the land would feel the glad change in the increased demand for his products and the better prices which he would receive.—WILLIAM McKINLEY.

The New York Recorder asks, Whom would free coinage benefit? Unless the collection of debts were enforced prior to its operation it would benefit existing debtors by enabling them to discharge their just obligations in depreciated money.

And who are the principal debtors of the country? Not the poor people, for they have not the ability to contract debts of any considerable magnitude. The principal debtors are railroad companies, savings banks, trust companies, manufacturers, large mercantile companies, states, cities, corporations, &c. These companies and corporations owe the people of this country more than $10,000,000,000, and the payment of their dues in 53-cent or 60-cent dollars would result in a net gain to them and in a net loss to other people of somewhere in the neighborhood of $5,000,000,000. The very rich, then, would derive some temporary advantage from the free coinage of silver.

And who are the creditors that would be injured? The moderately well-to-do people, widows, and orphans, and the laboring classes, including in that class all people who are paid for their services in salaries or wages. It is not generally known, and yet it is true, that more money is annually paid for labor in this country than for all other commodities combined. The annual wage roll of the country is estimated at $4,000,000,000. Workmen do not get their wages until after their work has been performed, and hence they are the largest class of creditors in the country, and they are mainly made up of people who are least able to endure losses.

Moreover, it is an elementary fact that under the stimulus of a depreciated currency, wages do not advance in price at an even pace with the advance in the price of other articles. The workman must continue to work for a long time for the same wage, though it will not purchase in the market the same commodities as he formerly purchased when he received Sound Money. Anything, therefore, that tends to depreciate the money in which he must receive his wage is a calamity to him.

City Times.
City laws for 1900 are now due. Prompt payment will oblige the city.

City Treasurer.

The Ledger's Leaflets—No. 4.

In the last leaflet some information was promised as to what the Nations of the world have done with silver since the so-called "crime" of 1873 and the corresponding "crimes" of other Nations. It is well known that many of the Nations ceased the free and unlimited coinage of silver about the same time that the United States did. Among these were Germany, Belgium, Holland, Norway, Sweden, France, Spain, Italy, Switzerland and Austro-Hungary. Yet all these countries continued to coin silver on Government account just as the United States has done, and even more freely than they had done before.

The result is that there is more than double the amount of silver money in the world today than there was in 1873. Preston, the Director of the Mint, shows that the silver money of the world in 1873 amounted to only $1,817,000,000, while today it amounts to $4,070,500,000, of which $3,440,700,000 is a full legal tender.

Thus it will be seen that the silver money of the world has not only more than doubled since the "crime of 1873," but has increased at the average rate of $95,000,000 a year since that time. The report of the Director of the Mint also shows that the world's coinage of silver in the last three years has been $406,565,815, or an average of $135,524,938 per annum, thus showing that the world is even now coining more silver than ever before. Here are the figures side by side:

Silver money in the world in 1873 . . . . .	$1,867,000,000
Silver money in the world in 1896 . . . . .	4,070,500,000
Annual average silver coinage since 1873 . . . . .	95,143,000
Average annual silver coinage since 1892 . . . . .	135,521,000

Now as to what the United States alone has done. The silver money in the United States today amounts to $625,000,000. In 1872 it amounted to $55,000,000. Thus it will be seen that the silver money in the United States is more than ten times as much today as it was prior to the "crime" of 1873.

Even during the first seven months of this year, 1896, more silver dollars were coined at the Mints of the United States than were coined in the 81 years prior to the Act of 1873.

The following table shows the amount of silver money in the United States in 1873 and the amount in each succeeding year down to date:

Year.	Silver Currency in the United States.	Year.	Silver Currency in the United States.
1873	$55,000,000	1884	$269,000,000
1874	58,000,000	1885	297,000,000
1875	61,000,000	1886	330,000,000
1876	63,000,000	1887	360,000,000
1877	62,000,000	1888	402,000,000
1878	60,000,000	1889	437,000,000
1879	105,000,000	1890	485,000,000
1880	129,000,000	1891	542,000,000
1881	163,000,000	1892	609,000,000
1882	189,000,000	1893	683,000,000
1883	218,000,000	1894	684,000,000
1884	244,000,000	1895	685,000,000

Do you think that the claim that silver has been badly treated by the United States or in the world at large is well founded?

BANKER SEWALL.

HE WILL NOT ACCEPT SILVER IN HIS CONTRACTS.

New York Tribune.

Scratch a well-to-do Free-silverite, and you will find a Gold Bug. 24 karat fine. Attention has been called to the fact that many of the hottest advocates of the 53 cent dollar, among them Gov. John P. Altgeld of Illinois, take the precaution that they shall not suffer from the money debasement that they advocate by inserting gold payment clauses in all their mortgages and contracts. The Tribune is in a position to say that no less a person than Arthur Sewall, the Popocratic candidate for Vice-President, maintains the gold standard in his private business transactions with as great earnestness as he accepted martyrdom for the silver standard.

Mr. Sewall recently took the contract for carrying four shipments of timber from Maine to Long Island City for the big crocoting firm of Eppinger & Russell. The Democratic candidate for Vice-President proved that he confided his silver ideas to the domain of theory by including a clause of which the following is the exact language:

The party of the second part agrees to pay to said party of the first part, or agent, for transportation of said timber . . . . . dollars and . . . . . cents, United States gold, or its equivalent.

Eppinger & Russell are among the most extensive dealers in spilling in the country. They make a specialty of soaking timber in creosote and oil so as to make it impervious to water. They get their timber largely from Maine and the Southern States and ship quantities of their product to South American countries. Their works are at the corner of First Street and East Avenue, Long Island City.

A short time ago the firm advertised for bids for the carrying of the four ship loads of timber above referred to. The lowest bid was from Mr. Sewall's firm, and the contract was promptly awarded. Mr. Sewall presented his form of contract for the signature of the firm. What was the surprise of Messrs. Eppinger & Russell upon noting the ironical, or rather gold-laid, clause.

At first they could scarcely credit their eyes. Could this be the man that was hurrying asthmatics at the gold standard as the source of all the country's financial ills, and urging workmen to vote for the white metal standard as the only way in which they could shake the shackles of poverty from their limbs? Was it possible that the man who was urging others to plunge headlong into independent free coinage of silver would not risk even the depreciation in silver money that the agitation of a free silver campaign might produce to the extent of not specifying "gold" in a short time contract?

Yes, Arthur Sewall was the man, because the New York and Long Island City firm learned from his own lips that "gold" was the basis on which he transacted business, no matter how he might talk to the voters.

Eppinger & Russell offered no objection to the gold clause, because they thought the possibility of free-silver coinage so remote that they were perfectly willing to abide by the gold standard. But some of the members of the firm inadvertently mentioned to some of their business associates the discovery that the Boy Orator's right-hand cunning made did not have the courage of his convictions, but was "hedging" against the possibility of his own election.

A visit was made to the Long Island City Works for a glance at the contracts. The Manager of the works, declined to discuss them, but said they were at the New York office of the firm. When a Tribune reporter visited the office of the firm in the Morris Building at Broad and Beaver streets, New York, he found Mr. Eppinger. The Tribune reporter explained the matter and said he would like to get a glance at the interesting contracts.

At first Mr. Eppinger was disposed to laugh the matter off as a joke.

"I told Mr. Sewall we were going to pay him in South American silver, so I did not blame him for wanting United States gold or its equivalent. We always insert such a clause in dealing with South American customers. I don't blame him for not wanting South American money, do you?"

Mr. Eppinger, after further conversation, reluctantly admitted that Mr. Sewall had demanded to be paid in United States gold or its equivalent, and added, as if annoyed:

"I don't know how this got about, I am sure."

Mr. Eppinger refused positively to exhibit the quartet of interesting contracts and indeed refused to talk further, after saying:

"I don't want to get mixed up in this. He ain't going to be elected and that's all I care about."

This discovery that Mr. Sewall is in practice an arch Goldbug is not going to lessen the embarrassment of the Popocrats in their dealing with Populists. The latter have found Mr. Sewall's connection with a National Bank an almost insurmountable objection to fusion. But when the "Popo" learn that Mr. Sewall is a silverite for purposes of political martyrdom only, they may be expected to retreat quickly to the middle of the road, encouraged by rejuvenated war whoops from "Tom" Watson.

Sewall's gold contracts are destined to play an important part as a campaign document. Many a wavering workman when he learns that the man from Maine is urging him into an unknown quicksand that he cautiously refrains from stepping into himself. The glaring inconsistency, between the ways of Sewall, ship-owner, and Sewall, candidate, will undoubtedly have a wholesome effect in such close states as Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois and Tennessee.

Nor are these contracts with Eppinger & Russell as isolated case. Mr. Sewall's ship, Sasquahanna, which is chartered to the Standard Oil Company, and has just loaded a cargo of oil at Philadelphia for Japan, has this clause in her contract of freightage:

The party of the second part agrees to pay to said party of the first part, or agent, for the use of said vessel during the voyage aforesaid, cents, United States gold, on each and every case delivered.

Gold clauses would, therefore, appear to be habitual with Mr. Sewall.
